WOODMEN TO SPEND $500,000, SAYS A. N. BORT

National Sanitarium Is to Be Splendid Monument to Fraternalism.

HEAD OFFICERS ARE HERE

Will Visit National Institution, and Make Plans for Its Future Development.

"Improvements aggregating more than $500,000 are being planned by the Modern Woodmen of America at the national sanitarium north of this city. This will include the erection of a magnificent central administration building, library, amusement hall and a refrigerating and heating plant. Landscape gardeners are to beautify the site with lawns, terraces and attractive drives. A second colony of 60 tents is to be erected immediately."—A. N. Bort, Sterling, Ill., president of the National board of directors of the Modern Woodmen of America.

The foregoing statements in an interview with a representatives of The Gazette yesterday afternoon tell the purpose of the present visit of head officers of the Modern Woodmen of America to Colorado Springs. Some of them arrived in the city yesterday afternoon at 2:10 o'clock over the Rock Island and are staying at the Alamo hotel. Head Consul A. R. Talbot is detained at his home in Lincoln, Neb., by the serious illness of his daughter, and will not be here, while Head Clerk W. Mawes is in at Rock Island, Ill., and will be unable to come.

On Inspection Tour.

Tonight the head officers participated in the presentation of the state membership banner to Colorado Springs camp No. 7326, and today will begin an inspection of the sanitarium and formulate plans for the beginning of the extensive improvements.

The head officers who arrived yesterday are: A. N. Bort, Sterling, Ill., chairman of the board of directors; E. B. Woodruff, Wadsworth, Ill., director; R. R. Smith, Brookfield, Mo., director; C. J. Byrnes, Ishpeming, Mich., director; C. E. Whelan, Milwaukee, supreme national lecturer; B. E. Jones, Rock Island, supreme head physician; James McNamar, Rock Island, Ill., deputy head clerk; O. E. Meshire, Chicago, state lecturer for Illinois; F. O. Van Gilder, Rock Island, editor of The Modern Woodman; [illegible] G. Ray, private secretary to the head consul; S. S. Tanner, Rock Island, state deputy head consul of Illinois, and Mrs. Tanner arrived last evening. Colorado state officials in the city are J. Mayfield Grangula, head consul, and E. B. Easterly, Denver, deputy head consul. W. H. Dyer, state deputy of Arizona, Utah and New Mexico, is also here.

Great Plans for Future.

"The Modern Woodmen of America," said Mr. Bort, "intends to make its national sanitarium in Colorado Springs a splendid monument to fraternalism. It will stand as one of the greatest achievements of a beneficiary and fraternal organization. During our visit here we will first prepare for the immediate erection of the second tent colony. Fifteen tents have already been donated by different camps for the new colony and other camps are announcing similar action. When it is remembered that there are more than 13,000 W. W. camps in the country, the possibilities of the growth of the institution are apparent.

"Attention will be given the big improvements immediately after our inspection of the institution, and they will very likely be started at an early date. However, it is probable that all of the buildings will not be completed until after the head camp meeting at Buffalo in 1911. The work will progress steadily until that time, when it is expected that further action will be taken to increase the facilities of the sanitarium.

"Plans for the group of buildings have not been drawn as the proposition is still in the formative state, although developing rapidly, and when matured will result in the improvement I have outlined.

Ample Funds.

"The national sanitarium has an assured annual income of more than $100,000, and this amount is being rapidly increased by voluntary contributions from camps and members. In fact our more than one million members are so enthusiastic over the enterprise that there is no telling how great the sanitarium may become. Funds more than sufficient to make the improvements can be secured when the occasion requires. That feature of the proposition is one of minor consideration in view of the general response.

"More than 1,000,000 members of the Modern Woodmen of America have a personal interest in Colorado Springs as the home of an institution that is their very own. The sanitarium is a topic of most important interest at every meeting of the more than 13,000 camps.

Valuable Advertising.

"We selected Colorado Springs as the site of our great enterprise, because no other place could in any way compare with it for climatic conditions and the many requirements for a sanitarium. Anywhere else this city is the home of our sanitarium, we propose to let the world know of it, giving this city valuable advertising.

"Colorado Springs is given frequent and wide mention every month to 1,000,000 readers of the Modern Woodman, our official publication. Eastern magazines and newspapers are publishing much matter pertaining to the sanitarium and the city.

"We have started a most aggressive fight against tuberculosis. We propose to make it a fight for prevention as well as cure. As a result we are distributing much literature concerning tuberculosis. To begin, we are instructing the school children on the dangers of tuberculosis and expect to prevent the spread of the disease by instilling the preventive idea in their minds. Then again, we are issuing to our members books giving instructions as to how the disease may best be warded off through diet, exercise and other methods."

The Modern Woodman.

"Yes, our monthly magazine, the Modern Woodman, is quite a publication," remarked F. O. Van Gilder, editor in chief, yesterday afternoon at the Alamo hotel. "Aside from its literary merit," he continued modestly, "it has a wide scope, the monthly circulation being 1,097,000 copies, one for each member of the order. Each issue consumes 14 carloads of book paper, weighing 93 tons. Almost a half-ton of ink is required for the printing and four barrels of paste for mailing. The mailing is done from our own plant under supervision of a postoffice deputy, as the postoffice facilities at Rock Island are wholly inadequate to handle this tremendous amount of mail. Fourteen mail cars carry the magazine to its readers, and the distribution on the train requires the services of almost 100 mail clerks."

MOTHER OF FELONS DIES IN PRISON

HER HUSBAND AND THREE SONS IN PENITENTIARY.

Mrs. Staffleback, 70 Years Old, Was in Vain to Spend Her Last Moments Out of Walls.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 9.—Mrs. Nancy Wilson, generally known as Mrs. Staffleback, one of the most notorious women prisoners in the Kansas penitentiary, died of pneumonia in a cell in the women's Ward today. Mrs. Staffleback was 70 years of age. Notified of her mother's condition and asked to come, George Staffleback, a life-term convict, and Charles Wilson, her second husband, another convict, be brought to her bedside.

Met Them in Cell.

They were taken over by the prison officials and told they could remain with her until she died. George Staffleback, the son, nearly collapsed when brought to his mother's cell. He asked if something could not be done so that his mother might die outside the prison. The mother, who was conscious, begged to be permitted to die outside. The prison officials told her they could do nothing.

Mrs. Staffleback was brought to the penitentiary to serve a 21-year sentence for murder in the second degree. At the time two of her sons were brought in under life sentence, a third son to serve seven years, and Charles Wilson, her second husband, to serve 25 years.

Family of Convicts.

One of the sons serving a life sentence died four years ago. The third son served out his sentence, and it is reported that he is now serving a term in the Missouri penitentiary at Jefferson City, Mo.

The Stafflebacks lived near Gardena, Kan., and were accused of numerous and atrocious murders. They ran a hotel and it was alleged that they murdered guests who had money and threw the bodies into a deserted mine. A number of skeletons were found on the premises.

The Stafflebacks are generally ranked next to the Benders in notorious Kansas murders.

"SOUTHERN GENTLEMEN" SAYS ATTORNEY MEEKS

Defense Lawyer Says Liberty of Press Was Violated and His Clients Sought Satisfaction.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 9.—The unwritten law was extended today to cover editors who attack private or public men by General Meeks of counsel for defense in the trial of the Cooper and Sharp, charged with murdering former United States Senator E. W. Carmack.

"You talk of liberty of the press," he exclaimed to the jury. "Why, gentlemen, no man lives who believes more firmly in the liberty of the press than I do. But when a man in an editorial position turns the liberty of the press into license and undertakes to defame and defile you and your family, what are you going to do? The prosecution will tell you you have your recourse in the courts. Yes, and you get a judgment for $25,000 against a man not worth the price of a plug of tobacco. Is that satisfaction?

"Gentlemen, I tell you the streets of this, our city, have run red before with the blood of men who improperly used other men's names in public prints."

General Meeks in a five hours' speech painted the defendants as the best types of southern aristocracy and breeding.

PRESIDENT WAS BUSY SIDESTEPPING THE INSURGENTS

Mr. Taft Misses Luncheon and Was Late Getting to Eames Concert.

WILL HE STAY ON FENCE?

Both Factions in Fight on House Rules Want Support of Chief Executive.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—President Taft was given an opportunity today to declare himself on the "insurgent" movement to revise the House rules. Diplomatically he sidestepped announcing how he stood, but in doing so he missed a luncheon and about half of a concert of Mme. Eames, which he was scheduled to attend in company with Mrs. Taft and their guests.

Representative Payne of New York, chairman of the committee on ways and means, sought the support of Mr. Taft for [illegible] and the insurgent case was advocated by Representatives Gardner of Massachusetts, Madison of Kansas and Nelson of Wisconsin.

Insurgents Wrathy.

The visit of the "insurgents" consumed most of the afternoon. The insurgents heard it charged that Mr. Taft intended to join hands with the House organization in the interest of getting the tariff bill through quickly. Greatly disturbed they hurried to the White House to urge Mr. Taft to take a soft seat on the fence and leave the fighting to them. When they came out of the executive offices Mr. Gardner declared with an exhibition of confidence that the "insurgents" were no longer in a compromising mood.

"We are firmly impressed that Mr. Taft is not opposed to a change of the rules," said Mr. Gardner, "but is a little fearful that a contest now would jeopardize the line and interfere with the passage of the tariff bill."

To Conciliate Taft.

Mr. Madison tried to leave the impression that there was no such danger in the fight they are conducting. He said he had told Mr. Taft that he and his colleagues were not disposed to interfere with the continuance of the present ways and means committees and he thought could promise that no objection would be made to the continuance of the old committees on any subjects that the President feels inclined to ask legislation at the present session. The "insurgents" also promised that they would not filibuster against legislation if they made their fight and lost. By these conciliatory promises Mr. Madison said they hoped to win the fight would be abandoned if lost now.

Will Bide Their Time.

He said the insurgents would wait however, until the proper time to renew it.

Mr. Payne was with the President only a few minutes. When he left he said he had told Mr. Taft that the tariff bill would be ready to report on the first day of the session, but that he could not prophesy what would happen if the present chaotic conditions in the House were to continue.

Several times during the conference, it is said, Taft said that he was ready to start for the concert, and was finally compelled to leave without Mr. Taft.

No announcement was made at the White House about the conference and nothing was given about the first meeting of the cabinet today.

nothing was given out about the first meeting of the cabinet today.

RACE WITH WATER TO SAVE BURIED MINERS

Two Brothers Caught in Cavein. Rescuers Work Frantically While Water Rises in Hole.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 9.—Imprisoned in the tunnel of the St. Patrick's mines in Hughes canon, above Murray, with all escape cut off by a cavein which has closed the tunnel, George and Jerry Peterson, brothers, are in hourly peril of death while 50 men are working in what seems to be a fruitless attempt to save them. A small pipe caught in the falling debris is supplying the men with what little air they are getting, but this pipe is so bent and twisted that it is impossible to supply food through it.

A message to the Herald at midnight describes the position of the men as extremely precarious. The water has risen above their knees. Its pressure on the walls of the tunnel threatens to bring down a fall of earth on their heads. The rescue party, which has been working feverishly, is within a few feet of the prisoners, but has found it necessary to procure timbers and buttress up the passage opened before going further. This may take hours and in the meantime the pent up water is rising inch by inch around the helpless miners. Danger from suffocation has been averted by the use of a pump with which air is being forced through the slender iron pipe to which the prisoners so far owe their lives.

KINSLEY TAKES RAP AT POLICE JUDGE

"NOTHING MORE THAN CASH REGISTER" HE SAYS.

Makes Plea for Druggist Rogers. Council Takes no Action.

"Judge Crow is nothing more than a cash register for the police court in [illegible] the greatest respect for his ability, but in his conduct of the police court he does whatever he is told by the chief of police and city attorney.

A. W. KINSLEY.

"I might stand here and tell you of violations by the other druggists of this city. I could if I would, but I won't."

The above statements were made before the City Council last night by Attorney S. H. Kinsley in behalf of Druggist F. N. Rogers, proprietor of Peoples pharmacy, whose liquor license was recently revoked. After considering a petition by Attorney Kingley and listening to his remarks, the Council practically reopened the matter by referring the entire question to the city attorney, with instructions to submit a written opinion on the legality of the Council's recent resolution revoking Rogers' license.

Says It Wasn't Fair.

Rogers' license was revoked last week, following his conviction in police court on a charge of selling whisky in quantities less than one quart. The prosecuting witness, a woman, testified that she bought five four-ounce bottles of whisky in one day, and gave further damaging evidence. Attorney Kinsley called the Council's attention last night to the fact that two other druggists were convicted of liquor violations two days after Rogers' conviction, on the testimony of the same woman, who, he said, is now thought to be a degenerate. He said that Chief of Police W. S. Reynolds did not request the Council to revoke the other licenses because of this alleged degeneracy, which was discovered after Rogers' license had been revoked, and said that it is not a square deal to revoke one license and not the others, when all three druggists have been convicted by the same witness, and on practically the same testimony.

Claims Revolution Invalid.

Attorney Kinsley also claimed that the Council acted unfairly in revoking Rogers' license without according the druggist a hearing. He said that its revocation, which contained a clause returning to Rogers the license fee for the unexpired term is therefore a restitution for the expenditure of money, and as such should have been substituted

WATTSON RESIGNS BEFORE NOMINATION

PROBABLY THE ONLY CASE ON RECORD OF ITS KIND.

Agrees to Step Out as Alderman When Sworn Under Charter Provisions.

The only case on record, so far as known, wherein a candidate for office has filed his resignation before being nominated by any political party, much less before his election, is that of Henry A. Wattson, who recently announced himself a candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket to succeed E. W. Frost from the Eighth ward.

Wattson's resignation, which is dated March 8, 1909, has been filed with City Clerk E. G. Whitehead, and is as follows:

"To the Honorable Mayor and City Council of Colorado Springs—

"Gentlemen: I hereby tender my resignation as Alderman from the Eighth ward, this resignation to take effect at such time as there may be a change of form of government in this city, should I then be holding the office as alderman, and a successor under the charter form of government be duly elected and qualified to take my place.

"Respectfully,

"HENRY A. WATTSON."

SHOOTS SWEETHEART TO AVOID MARRIAGE

FIRST STORY THREW BLAME ON HIGHWAYMAN.

J. J. Mueller Confesses to Murder of Fiancee Under Grilling by Police Officers.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 9.—Under searching questioning today, John J. Mueller confessed that it was he who last night shot and killed his sweetheart, Miss Regina Reed. He said there was no truth in the story he told immediately after the shooting, that he and Miss Reed were held up by a highwayman who, after securing Mueller's money, demanded a necklace worn by Miss Reed.

Mueller stated last night that in response to this demand Miss Reed slapped the highwayman's face and thereon the fatal shot was fired.

Miss [illegible] and Mr. Mueller was set for April 14. According to Mueller's statement, after they had walked a short distance, the girl preceding him, he thought he saw a man emerging from behind a tree and believing himself to be in danger, fired, but owing to unsteadiness of his aim on account of fright, the bullet struck and killed Miss Reed.

To Avoid Engagement.

His story, however, is not accepted by the police, who declare the killing was premeditated. They say Mueller wished to break off his engagement and had not the courage to tell her so.

At the coroner's inquest it was shown that the place where the shooting took place was dark and that a highwayman could not have seen the necklace worn by the girl, and that Mueller could not have seen the alleged highwayman's pistol glisten. Last December a letter received by Mueller threatened him with harm if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Reed. The police believe Mueller sent the letter to himself.

PROTESTING AGAINST BANK GUARANTEE MEASURE

Bill Passes Third Reading in House but Parrish Claims Unconstitutional Action.

SENATE IS WASTING TIME

Patience of Representatives Exhausted by Dallying Tactics of Senators. Fight on Gerrymander.

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, March 9.—Representative Parrish, Republican, filed with the House before the adjournment of the house tonight a protest against the bank guarantee bill, which passed third reading in the house this morning. The protest quotes the constitution, which declares that a bill shall be read at length in the house on two separate days. Then he recounts that the clerk did not read all of the bill, but only whole sections in order to hurry along his work. The protest was spread upon the records and will be used as an argument in the courts, if the bill gets through the senate.

Angry at Senate.

An evidence of the feeling that is beginning to rise against the senate was shown in the house this afternoon, during a debate on a motion to recommit the game bill, then up for third reading. Mr. Lehrbritter tried to secure amendments to the bill, and when unsuccessful, declared that the senate would not pass it anyway. He was asking if he was authorized to speak for the upper house, and retorted by saying that anyone could see, by the way the senate was kept adjourning, that it intended to accomplish nothing. That there is some foundation for the charge has been evident for many days, as the senate will work an hour or so in the morning, and take a recess to 2:30, remaining in session then not over an hour and a half. No secret is made of the intention, either, that the senators will endeavor to turn off and direct inquiry.

[illegible] for Dallying.

A[illegible] the matters now being used to keep from doing anything is the Barela-Beshoar contest, which has been profuse of delays throughout the whole session. Senator Adams makes a motion each morning to call up the report of the elections committee, and then finds an excuse for putting it over to the afternoon. In the afternoon some one is away, so it cannot be taken up. There is an object in this outside of mere delay in work. Persistent rumors, believed by nearly all, assert that several of the Democratic senators will come to Barela's aid if he needs them. So there is an effort to "smoke out" these, and have them put on record. A disquieting story today was that the lieutenant governor was not certain he does not have power to vote in case of a tie on any matter before the senate. He submitted the question to the attorney general and says he will act on the opinion returned. Should he do so another Democrat would have to side with Barela to keep the tie from remaining.

Bills on Third Reading.

Third readings in the house this afternoon included the Helbig bills concerning elections and registration, and Hicks' bill for registration for primary elections. Also Senator Skinner's bill providing that house to house canvasses shall not be necessary in cases of special elections like those to be held in Colorado Springs, Pueblo and Grand Junction on matters connected wit proposed new charters. This bill will be ready

SIX JURORS SWORN FOR CALHOUN TRIAL

Examination of 1,400 Veniremen and 57 Days of Work Jury Is Half Complete.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9. At the close of the fifty-seventh day since the work of impanneling a jury was begun, and after more than 1,400 veniremen had been examined, six jurors were finally accepted today to try Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, who stands charged with having offered a bribe to former Supervisor Fred P. Nicholas with the purpose of influencing him to vote for the overhead trolley franchise. Six peremptory challenges were exercised, three by the prosecution and three by the defense.

The men sworn to try the case are Joseph Dixon, clerk; Peter Anthes Sr., retired mining man; Michael [illegible], retired hay and grain merchant; Robert B. Symington, civil engineer; Charles H. Suldam, wholesale grocer; James Granville, retired merchant. They were ordered into the custody of the sheriff by Judge W. P. Lawlor, and sent to the St. Francis hotel.

The work of getting six more citizens to fill the jury box will be continued today.

PROTESTING AGAINST SALARIES OF MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN ARE FIXED

Placed at $3,600 and $2,400. Their Whole Time Is Not Required.

CAPABLE MEN ASSURED

The salary of the Mayor of Colorado Springs will be $3,600, and that of the four members of the Council, $2,400 each, according to a charter provision adopted after much discussion by the [illegible] yesterday. These figures were reached after a straw ballot was taken, each member giving the salary favored by him, together with his reasons. Of the 19 members present, five voted for $5,000 for the Mayor and five for $3,600, the others ranging between the two figures. The lowest figure was finally adopted. The average of the 19 estimates was $4,172.63.

Estimates on the salary of the councilmen ranged from $1,500 to $3,000, and the average was $2,421.05, or almost exactly the figure finally fixed.

[illegible] Not Required.

The convention also adopted a section of the [illegible] charter's report providing that the "[illegible] men should give all their time to the city. It was pointed out that in the case of the Mayor, especially, a competent man [illegible] will not [illegible] by [illegible] was [illegible] pointed out that all [illegible] will be able to [illegible] their duties, and that [illegible] the city [illegible] by law [illegible].

The [illegible] at [illegible] o'clock tonight, to [illegible] of the [illegible] and water works.

In its consideration of the [illegible] committee's report yesterday, the convention [illegible] to the committee, including the clause in reference to qualifying and the [illegible] of elective officers, and the [illegible] direct or indirect, of any officers or employes in any city [illegible], etc.

The report of the committee, as amended [illegible] follows:

[illegible]

The four councilmen each receive a salary of $2,400 [illegible] payable in [illegible] at monthly intervals.

Removal of Mayor, Councilmen.

In case of gross neglect, inability or willful neglect in the performance of the duties of his office, the Mayor or any councilman may be removed by vote of two-thirds of the Council, but he will be given an opportunity to be heard in his defense. [illegible] shall have the right to appear by attorney and to have a full and complete hearing, if to do so, the attendance of witnesses, who shall be required to give testimony, if he so elects. The hearing, to be held within ten days of the Mayor, or any councilman, shall be public and a full and complete statement of the reasons for such removal, if he be removed, together with the findings of fact as made by the Council, shall be filed by the Council with the city clerk, and shall be and be a matter of public record.

No appointment to position under the city government shall be made or be withheld by reason of any religious or political opinions or affiliations or political services, and no appointment to or selection for or removal from any office or employment, and no transfer, promotion, reduction, reward or punishment shall be in any manner affected by such opinions, affiliations or services.

Official Books and Papers.

All books, records and papers of every office, department, board or commission, and of all the officers mentioned in this charter, are city property, and must be kept as such by such officers during their continuance in office and then delivered to their successors, and the failure to deliver such books, records and papers shall be a misdemeanor and punishable as such.

Payment of Debts.

Failure of any city officer or employe to promptly pay any indebtedness contracted by him while in the service of the city shall be ground for his removal.

Bonding Bond Issue.

The convention also adopted a section in the finance committee's report, which was held over until Monday, providing that the city's bonded indebtedness shall not exceed 3 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property within its limits. The statute already contains this provision, but Article XX of the constitution, from which the charter derives its powers, does not limit [illegible] of other cities, and it was thought best to [illegible] the city. The [illegible] thus fixing about $[illegible] as the limit of bonded indebtedness.

fed to the Mayor, or acting Mayor, for his signature. This not being done the entire resolution is invalid, according to Kinsley.

The attorney took occasion to rap police Judge Gandy severely during the course of his remarks, and also intimated that Rogers was not fairly dealt with in police court. He quoted from City Attorney Price, who, at the time Rogers' license was revoked, expressed the opinion that Rogers could appeal from the police court decision, even after paying the fine, since he had pleaded not guilty.

Attorney Kinsley then went on to say that within the five days prescribed by law, an appeal bond in Rogers' case was offered to "magistrate Gandy who refused it on the advice "or direction," as Kinsley put it, of the city attorney.

No Action Taken.

The Council did not convene until 10 o'clock last night, having been in caucus with regard to the proposed franchise of the street car company. The aldermen adjourned to next Saturday night, when it will hear petitions or protests from interested property owners on any phase of the question. Final action one way or the other will probably be taken at the regular meeting next Monday night. No definite settlement has been reached, but matters may be adjusted soon to the satisfaction of the city and the Santa Fe and street car companies.

Pursuant to a petition signed by the owners of more than one-half the frontage affected, the Council last night ordered printed an ordinance granting the Colorado and Southern railroad a permit to construct a spur on the west side of South Sahwatch street, across West Cucharas street. The spur will connect the Colorado and Southern tracks with Armour and company's building. It will be about 380 feet long.

POSSE TRACKS MURDERER

Exciting Chase, Through Desert After Slayer of Millionaire Ranchman.

NOGALES, Ariz., March 9.—Excitement is still running high here over the murder of Don Luis Proto, the millionaire rancher, who was shot and killed a few miles in Sonora. Officers are scouring the country for the murderer and it is believed to be certain that he will be captured.

The fact that the slayer wore a peculiar make of shoes has enabled the posse to track him many miles with ease.

Proto was shot twice. The Mexican driver says that they were driving along the road when the first shot from the roadside brought down one of the horses. Proto leaped out of the wagon and was shot down. The driver then fled down the road and was slightly wounded in the back. He turned and saw the murderer come out from ambush, and place his rifle to the head of the fallen Proto and fire the fatal shot.

BRINKLEY, Ark., March 9.—Thirty or more lives were lost, 60 people were injured and property worth $1,000,000 was destroyed as a result of the tornado which wrecked this town last night. Of the dead 14 are white people as follows:

Many women were among the seriously injured.

Destruction Work of Minutes.

The tornado shrieked above the city only a few minutes, but its work of destruction was complete. The Catholic church standing directly in the path of the storm, alone escaped damage or destruction and stands tonight amid desolation. It has been converted into a hospital.

The principal thoroughfares are impassable and are piled high with wreckage.

Every business house is in ruins and there is hardly a home that has not been damaged. All the hotels were demolished, but guests escaped.

Relief Squads at Work.

Relief squads have been at work all day caring for the dead and injured. The Rock Island and Cotton Belt railroads have placed cars at the disposal of the local relief committee and many people are leaving Brinkley, seeking a temporary refuge at other points near by. Governor Donaghey arrived from Little Rock this afternoon in response to a call from the relief committee. Hundreds of people are homeless and are wandering about seeking a temporary abode. Three special trains arrived from neighboring towns today, bringing relief workers, physicians and nurses. In the Catholic church doctors and nurses are caring for the injured.

Mass meetings have been called for tomorrow in Memphis, Little Rock and other cities, to raise funds and supplies for the storm victims.

RUTH BRYAN GETS DIVORCE

Says Pad It Not Fair for Pa—to She Would Have Suffered Want.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 9. Ruth Bryan Leavitt, eldest daughter of William J. Bryan, was this afternoon granted a divorce from W. H. Leavitt. Mrs. Leavitt and her mother appeared in the court of Judge Cornish and both alleged that Leavitt had not contributed to the support of his wife. There was no defense. Mrs. Leavitt was granted the custody of the two children.

Mrs. Leavitt testified that her husband, though able-bodied and capable in his profession as a painter, had failed to provide sufficiently to maintain herself and her children. She testified that it became necessary soon after her marriage, in October, 1903, for her parents to contribute to her support, and that on one occasion her father gave her $5,000, the enjoyment of which was shared by her husband.

"My parents even helped us to furnish the home that we established in Denver, four years ago," Mrs. Leavitt asserted on the stand. "Mr. Leavitt has been in Paris a year and a half, and has sent me nothing toward the support of myself and my children. The burden has fallen on my parents. Except for their aid I should have been in want."

AFTER COUSIN'S SLAYER

George Dieter of Chicago Arrives to Probe Mystery of Young Rancher's Disappearance.

PUEBLO, Colo., March 9.—George Dieter, of Chicago, a cousin of Peter Dieter, the young rancher, who is supposed to have been murdered in cold blood near here about three weeks ago, arrived today and left at once for the scene of the crime to lead in a search for the body.

It was learned today that Bay Gordon, the cowboy who made his home with Dieter and who is also missing, cashed a check for $500 at a Pueblo bank about the time that Dieter disappeared. The check was signed by Dieter and the signature is thought to have been genuine, but the officers believe that the victim was forced to sign the check.

EXPLOSION OF GASES FATALLY INJURES TWO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—The still in the refining work of the Standard Oil company at Point Richmond exploded today, presumably owing to an accumulation of gases. The building was wrecked and two workmen, N. B. Miller and George Shaw, were fatally injured.

Both men were terribly burned and have not recovered consciousness since the accident. The explosion was followed by a great flare back, the flames enveloping the men. The property loss will reach several thousand dollars. The plant is one of the largest of its kind in the world.

Sports That Are New

FIVE TEAMS SUCCUMB IN BIG SIX-DAY RACE

Frenchmen in Lead With 11 Miles to the Good at the End of 46 Hours.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Five teams succumbed to the strain and retired from the six-day international go-as-you-please race today, so that at 10 o'clock 11 of the 27 teams that started Sunday night remained in the contest. Cibot and Orphee, the Frenchmen showed good form all through the day and tonight had a commanding lead of over 11 miles on their nearest opponents, Davis and Metkus. The last named late today succeeded in passing Dineen and Prouty, the early leaders in the race, and several hours later Feegan and Curtis, the Irish team, did likewise. The veteran Dineen today plainly showed the wear of his team's first day's effort to retain the lead and experts would not be surprised were he forced to retire.

The scores at 10 o'clock tonight, the forty-sixth hour, follows:

Cibot and Orphee, 280 miles, 5 laps; Davis and Metkus, 269 miles, 4 laps; Feegan and Curtis, 267.6; Dineen and Prouty, 259.4; Loeblein and Kluberanz, 249.5; Corey and Helgeman, 236.3; Shelton and Fraser, 233.1; Vignard and Royers, 225.4; Naves and Keller, 213.4; Harley and Palanti, 210.3; Quackenbush and Edelson, 194.5.

JEFFRIES-JOHNSON BOUT MAY BE IN OMAHA

Arrangements Being Made for 40-Round Fight for $100,000. Special Law Needed.

OMAHA, Neb., March 9.—Arrangements are now under way here for a fight between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, the fight to take place in Omaha for a purse of $100,000. James Coffroth and Westin Brady of San Francisco and Enos Brady of Fresno, Cal., are engineering the contract portion of the deal and Jabez Cox of Omaha is attending to the Omaha end, which includes the passage of a bill through the legislature permitting boxing in this state. Already this bill has been prepared and much work has been put in on it.

The Californians will be in Omaha on April 1 to close the deal, if the bill passes the legislature. Because of the central location of Omaha the promoters believe the largest fight crowd ever gathered can be brought here if the laws will permit the exhibition. As planned now, the contract will call for a 40-round boxing contest.

JEFFRIES IS SILENT REGARDING JOHNSON

Says That He Will Not Talk Fight Until He Gets Good and Ready.

NEW YORK, March 9.—When Jim J. Jeffries was seen tonight at the theater where he is playing a vaudeville engagement, and shown the Associated Press interview with Jack Johnson in which the negro champion declared himself ready and willing to meet Jeffries or "any man in the world," the big fellow only grinned and said nothing.

The Victoria dispatch was read to Jeffries a paragraph at a time, with the loud pedal on that part of it which had particular reference to him, but, after each pause the big Californian rubbed his chin and muttered "Nothing to say."

In that part of the interview in which Johnson declared talk of Jeffries still being the champion tired him was read to Jeffries, he laughed. The parallel drawn between an ex-mayor and an ex-champion by the negro fighter also elicited a chuckle from Jeffries, but when asked to dilate on the point, he refused, reiterating his stereotyped "Nothing to say."

Interested in Ketchel.

The possibility of a match being arranged between Johnson and Ketchel roused Jeffries, however. He had that passage read to him twice, and then remarked, "Why, Ketchel is a little bit of a fellow."

"You do not consider it likely, then," Jeffries was asked, "that Johnson and Ketchel will ever be matched?"

"I don't know," he replied, "and I don't care. I have refused to say anything concerning that party, and I ain't going to say anything except when I get good and ready."

"By that party you mean Johnson?"

"I do."

It was then explained to the retired champion that his persistence in allowing his attitude in the matter of a match with Johnson to remain a mystery would encourage the negro champion to issue pronouncements and challenges at every stopping place.

To this Jeffries remarked, "Let him."

The news of a parade being held in Galveston in honor of Johnson almost drew an impulsive reply from Jeffries. He checked himself, however, and his grin became a sneer.

BRITT IS ELECTED MEMBER OF LONDON CLUB

LONDON, England, March 9.—James Edward Britt, the American boxer, received some distinction yesterday, when he was elected a member of the exclusive National Sporting club of this city. This is the first time that this honor has ever been accorded to a pugilist, and there is much dissension among some of the members of the club, who claim it's a gentlemen's organization and that pugilists are not wanted as associates.

The gentlemanly bearing of Britt since his arrival in the big metropolis, however, has gained him many friends, and when Manager Bettison proposed his name for membership it was carried and the clever American has now entry to this well-known sporting organization.

BRITT AGREES TO MEET CORBETT

LONDON, March 9.—Jimmy Britt has accepted an offer cabled by his brother, Willus Britt, to fight Young Corbett in New York 10 rounds for $3,000 guarantee and 40 per cent of the gate receipts. While awaiting details of the Corbett fight, Britt has issued another challenge to Summers, depositing $500 as an evidence of good faith.

KILLS LABOR LEADER

Quarrel Over Nonunion Workmen Ends in Fatal Shooting.

ROSWELL, N. M., March 9.—Ollie S. Shirley, a local labor leader, well known in American Federation of Labor circle was shot and killed here this afternoon by W. T. Wells, a wealthy resident of Roswell, as a result of a quarrel over the employing of a nonunion man on some construction work being done for Wells. Demand was made that Wells discharge the man because he had openly criticised the union men. When Wells refused the union men at work upon the structure laid down their tools. Negroes and Mexicans were engaged to fill their places immediately. This brought Shirley to the scene, and it is said, he warned them not to continue at work or there would be trouble. Wells protested against Shirley's interference, it is said, and the latter struck him. Wells then shot Shirley through the heart, killing him instantly. Wells was arrested and spirited out of town for fear that Shirley's friends would attempt to lynch him.

PARIS, March 9.—The chamber of deputies today passed the income tax bill by 407 votes to 166.

STATE BANNER PRESENTED

Head Camp Officers Participate in Ceremonies Held by Colorado Springs Camp No. 7226.

The state membership banner was formally presented to Colorado Springs camp No. 7226, Modern Woodmen of America, last evening at its new hall in the Bacon block, in the presence of a number of the head camp officers. The banner, representing the largest growth in membership for the year, had been held by Phoenix camp in Denver for nine years, since the Modern Woodmen of America came to Colorado. The ceremonies were witnessed by 300 members of Colorado Springs camp.

The presentation address was made by C. E. Whelan of Milwaukee, supreme national lecturer, and received for the camp by E. E. Gould, camp consul. Mr. Whelan highly complimented Colorado Springs camp upon its splendid work in winning the banner, and stated that it was an achievement to which it may well point with pride. Addresses were also made by O. E. Aleshire, state lecturer for Illinois; E. E. Murphy, national director; E. O. Van Gilder, editor of the Modern Woodman; S. S. Tanner, state deputy for Illinois; D. E. Jones, supreme head physician, and C. W. Hawes, Jr., son of the head clerk, who was unable to be present on account of illness. All of the visiting officials were guests of Colorado Springs camp yesterday.

During the last year Colorado Springs camp added 230 new members, making the total enrollment more than 800. The championship emblem is a beautiful silk banner in red, white and green, the colors of the order. It bears the inscription in gold letters, "Prize Banner, Camp, State of Colorado, Showing Largest Gain in the Year 1908."

At the close of the ceremonies refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent socially.

The officers of Colorado Springs camp are: Consul, E. E. Gould; advisor, Glen Hollister; banker, John Jack; clerk, S. D. Tait; escort, A. B. Cole; watchman, E. W. Marshall; managers, H. C. Henderson, J. C. Haas and H. M. Kingsolver.

FOR MORE BEAUTIFUL CITY

Real Estate Exchange Will Use Influence Against Unsightly Old Buildings.

Plans for an extensive advertising campaign for Colorado Springs were discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Real Estate exchange last night at the Alta Vista hotel. Ways and means for ridding the city of unsightly shacks and other things which are found in its business part were considered, but no definite conclusion was reached. The exchange will use its influence to have a number of these old buildings torn down and rebuilt in modern style.

The exchange plans to discuss questions of public interest and carry on an active campaign for beautifying the city.

RAISING OF GOATS GROWING INDUSTRY

DEMAND FOR MOHAIR FAR EXCEEDS SUPPLY.

Standard of Angora Breed Much Improved in Recent Years—Animals Good Land Clearers.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Within the last few years the people of the United States have awakened to the fact that there is a great deal of money to be made by raising goats, and in consequence much attention is being directed to this industry. The interest is divided between Angoras and milch goats, though the latter have been longer established. It is conservatively estimated that there are at present over 1,000,000 Angora goats in this country and they are to be found in every state and territory, including Alaska.

The great value of the Angora goat lies in its fleece, or mohair, which hangs from all parts of the body in long white, silky ringlets, sometimes to the length of 18 inches, though the average is about ten. From it are made the popular and durable mohair and brilliantine dress goods, blankets, robes, sail cloth, underwear and mittens. On account of its luster it is often substituted for silk. The plush which is used in the seats and cushions of cars is made from the fleece of this little animal. Raincoats and bathing suits are now being made of mohair cloth. The long hair of the Angora is also used to make all kinds of wigs, switches, nets and hair ornaments. If properly prepared, the pelts can be made into beautiful rugs and robes, and are used as a trimming for coats and furs.

Crop of Mohair.

The average registered goat clips from three to five pounds of mohair, the price varying from 16 cents to a dollar as determined by the fineness. Two prize winners exhibited at the St. Louis exposition were remarkable for their fleeces. One yielded 14 pounds, greatest length 18 inches, which sold for $42. The other sheared 16 pounds, most of it over 20 inches, ten pounds going at five dollars a pound. Both of these goats were from New Mexico. In the south of Africa, it is a common thing to pay from $2,000 to $3,000 for a fine buck, but it is out of the question to try to buy one in Turkey. They can be had in this country for from a few dollars for the lowest grade up to $1,350. The African breeders are not particularly anxious to part with their stock at any price, as they passed a law providing an export duty of one hundred pounds sterling, about $487, on each Angora goat shipped from the country.

The introduction of the Angora goat into the United States was during the administration of President Polk. The sultan of Turkey sent for a man who could experiment with the raising of cotton in that country. The choice fell upon Dr. James B. Davis of Columbia, South Carolina, and his work was so satisfactory that on his departure from Turkey the sultan presented him with nine Angora goats. Later these were sold to Colonel Richard Peters of Atlanta, Ga., who added more to the flock and thus laid the foundation for the Angora goat industry in this country.

Checked by War.

From that small herd many more were started in the south and southwest, and a few in other regions. However, the outbreak of the Civil war checked the progress which being made particularly in the south, where the largest herds were located. The man who has owned more Angoras than any one breeder in the world is [illegible] Wisconsin, he was ordered west on account of ill health and went to the Pacific coast, where he taught school. Seeing a government bulletin which stated that mohair was valuable, he decided to give up teaching and devote himself to raising goats. After many trials and vicissitudes he succeeded in starting a herd.

The first clipping from his flock was sent to Bradford, England, the principal mohair market, and was sold at a good profit. Mohair factories had been established, but up to that time there had been no use made of goat skins, so Mr. Pilley incorporated a robe and glove company in San Jose. In a few years this concern handled 100,000 skins annually, and a ready sale was found for all the gloves that could be made. As Mr. Pilley's interests grew, and government lands became scarcer, he bought a large tract in Nevada, where at one time he had over 15,000 goats. The raising of the standard of the Angora in America is largely due to this man. In spite of the prohibition of the sultan, he managed to secure four fine specimens of goats from Asia Minor, and now, although the product taken as a whole is better in Asia Minor, the United States has finer individuals and its herds yield a greater income than those of Turkey.

Demand Exceeds Supply.

The demand in the United States for the best quality of mohair is much greater than the supply, and it is necessary to import large quantities. In 1907 four of the leading mills imported over [illegible] pounds from foreign lands. The factories in the United States are all situated in the east, principally in New York and Boston. It was at first supposed that a warm climate was necessary to the wellbeing of these animals, coming as they originally did from the province of Angora in Turkey, but in 1900 a New Hampshire man determined to experiment with them in his climate with its rigorous winters. Accordingly he bought a small flock, and after careful study and work, he found that not only did they thrive, but their fleece grew heavier and longer, as a protection from the cold. As a means of livelihood, the raising of goats is particularly adapted to women, as it requires very little care or labor, except at the semiannual shearing.

Another valuable asset of the Angora goat is its usefulness in clearing land covered with brush and weeds. Any goat is good for this purpose, but the Angora is preferred because at the same time it is clearing the land, it is growing a fleece of great value. When put on an overgrown piece of ground, the goats first eat every leaf and twig and piece of brush within reach, then girdle the saplings by peeling the bark from them. If put back the second year they will finish the good work by eating every sprout which has sprung out from the old stumps, so leaving the place ready for cultivation. As a test of their powers, 24 goats were put on a four-acre inclosure, [illegible] overgrown with weeds and blackberry vines, so as to be impassable without [illegible]. In less than two months the place was completely cleared, not a vestige of the former growth remaining. Texas was the first state to use [illegible] as land cleaners.

As Land Cleaners.

The success of goats [illegible] caused the United States government to experiment in another direction. The forest service will [illegible] Angoras in the brush covered [illegible] California. These pests [illegible] are expected to rob [illegible] of their horror, and to save the [illegible] which are so often [illegible] flames. If successful, [illegible] will save the chaparral [illegible] has become costly in the past. The scheme is this: The fires are [illegible] with the contour of the slope and are to act as guides for the goats. The Angoras are to browse [illegible] from this belt, leaving a strip of brush 30 feet wide. When the fire strikes these clearings [illegible] necessity stop for want of fuel and gradually die out.

Equally useful to humanity is the milch goat. In foreign countries goat's milk has always been used as food, but it is just being adopted in the United States. The problem of feeding babies becomes more and more serious every year, and it is believed that the milch goat will overcome the difficulty. Most of the milk which is used in large cities comes from long distances and is subject to contamination. Cows are prone to tuberculosis, and their milk often contains the germs of that dread malady. If goat's milk is used all this is avoided. Goats can live and thrive in a place where cows could not be kept at all. They are much healthier than cows, almost immune from tuberculosis, and their milk is richer than cow's milk. The feed of a goat costs almost nothing, and for this reason it is called the poor man's cow.

Goats are much better milkers, in proportion to their size, than cows, and their milk is always in demand. A man near Washington has a few goats and readily disposes of their milk at a dollar a quart. At Palisade, New Jersey, a colony of Italians keep a herd of 500 milch goats, and a good revenue is derived from them. Ohio, Massachusetts and New York also have thoroughbred herds. Goat's milk is considered very fine for invalids, and there are many sanitariums in the Alps where this diet is the principal treatment. In the Pyrenees and in other European places, the herd of goats is driven from door to door and milked before the eyes of the customer, so there can be no question of adulteration. Goats make fine foster mothers, and it is not an uncommon sight in foreign lands to see a baby and a kid side by side nursing the same goat.

The famous old Cashmere shawls were made from the fine second coat of the goats from Kashmir, India, and Thibet. Each animal yields only two or three ounces of this a year, and to secure it the goat has to be carefully combed. Some of it is picked from bushes against which the goats rub themselves, so that it is small wonder these shawls are so costly. Since time immemorial, the goat has been an important factor in the life of man. In ancient days the Jews always used it as a sacrifice to Jehovah. It figured prominently in mythology, and the Egyptians worshiped it as a god. The goat of ancient Media was a deity, and if a buck died, the whole Median family went into deepest mourning. In Ireland the goat has always been highly prized and contributes materially to the welfare of the poor.

Flatulency or Wind On Stomach

As It Is Commonly Named, Means That Decaying Food is Making Gas.

This most serious condition is very prevalent and results most distressingly and fatally oftentimes. The stomach in cases of flatulency is unable to digest the food properly. Decay sets in, gases form, extend the stomach, force their way downward into the bowels, and if not relieved it extends upward pressing against the lungs, liver and heart, causing shortage of breath, belching, foul odors and many times sudden death.

Foods which are filled with gases, when taken into a deranged stomach cause flatulency rapidly, vegetables being especially given to this quality. Against such a condition the stomach can do but little, because these foul and poisonous gases affect its glands, muscles and tissues to such a degree as to incapacitate it almost at once.

The gases distend the stomach in all directions, preventing the contracting muscles from doing their regular duties, or if they do force the gas from the stomach it goes elsewhere in the system, with even more harassing results, and then the decaying mass still remains to generate more gases.

The most effective method for curing flatulency is to remove the cause of gas making. An emetic will do this but the stomach will have the same trouble the moment new food enters it.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets get at the food at once, digest it, prevent decay, quickly reduce food to nourishment, make good rich gastric fluid and pass the digested food to the intestines, giving the stomach its rest and the system its nourishment. Flatulency simply cannot exist where these little tablets are used. They build up the stomach fluids so that it matters not how many vegetables you eat, or food containing quantities of gas, the stomach does its work well and quickly.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold everywhere and used the whole world over by sick stomachs and stomachs that want to eat heartily and yet not get sick.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, price 50 cents per box. The demand for these little digesters is constantly increasing. Forty thousand physicians in America and Canada use them and prescribe them. Send us your name and address and we will send you a trial package by mail free. Address F. A. TRUEMAN LOCKHART WEDS A KANSAS CITY GIRL

Trueman Lockhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Lockhart of this city, and Miss Laurena Orr, daughter of a prominent business man of Kansas City, Mo., were married in Kansas City Monday, according to a telegram received by Mrs. Francis D. Pastorius, a sister of young Lockhart. The bridal couple are now with the groom's mother, who is in Hot Springs, Ark.

Trueman Lockhart has been prominent in the younger social set here for many years. He was formerly a star athlete in the High School and Cutler Academy. For some time he has been helping to look after his father's cattle and land interest near Rocky Ford and Sugar City. James A. Lockhart is one of the most prominent cattlemen in the state.

THE PANEL ALWAYS GIVES HEIGHT.

The stout woman and the short woman will do well to make the most of the stole or tablier style while it is at high tide of fashion. The long lines of these embroidered panels lend added height, grace and dignity to the figure, and the panels are easy to apply, being simply straight lengths of fabric attached to the daubed frock. This costume of cornflower blue satin has a panel embroidered in shades of blue in a Greek honeysuckle pattern, and the end of the panel is weighted by a heavy fall of rich fringe.

"DEAD" BANKERS AT DENVER CONVENTION

DENVER, Colo., March 9.—Officers of the American Bankers association have just discovered that real live "ghosts" walked at the annual convention of the association, which was held in Denver last November. It has been found that the names of at least a dozen bankers in various parts of the country, who have been dead for several years, were assumed by unknown persons, who registered at the convention, answered to roll calls, voted, [illegible] and enjoyed the hospitality of the bankers of Denver, attending all the receptions and excursions arranged in honor of the visiting bankers.

The fraud was discovered when the proceedings were sent out and association bank officials discovered much to their surprise that their former president, who had been dead for several years, had been among the distinguished guests.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 9.—Dr. Henry Isaac Jones, a veteran surgeon of the Confederate and British services, is dead at his home in this city, where he has practiced for years. He died from a complaint which he contracted while he was with the British army in India. Dr. Jones was a native of Wales.

A Dry Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a torpid liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved [illegible] because he lagged in his task. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished and ill-fed body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put these in working order and see how quickly your liver will have to be active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, nervous, frequent headache, pain or distress after eating, all out of back, gnawing or distress feeling in the stomach, [illegible] in the throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, a medicine will relieve you [illegible] Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" [illegible] to the use until you are [illegible]

The "Discovery" is sold [illegible] in a dry, concentrated form, [illegible] tablets with a full [illegible] printed on it, [illegible] and extolled by the [illegible] writers of the age. [illegible]

THE NEW CABINET.

PROBABLY the first comment that most people have made on the new Cabinet concerns the extraordinary array of legal talent. Of the nine members five are lawyers and one other—Mr. MacVeagh—was a lawyer before he engaged in business. The members of the legal profession are Secretary of States Knox, Secretary of War Dickinson, Attorney-General Wickersham, Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel. With such an array of counselors at the cabinet table President Taft, who is himself one of the foremost lawyers in the country, certainly cannot go far wrong on points of law. Perhaps the new President's determination to surround himself with good legal advisers was strengthened by the recent incident concerning Mr. Knox's constitutional disqualification. That two such eminent constitutional authorities as Mr. Taft and Mr. Knox should have overlooked the trivial technicality which, for a time, threatened to prevent the Pennsylvania Senator from entering the Cabinet, is the best joke that has come out of Washington in many a day.

It is perfectly safe to predict that unless some unforeseen event removes Mr. Knox from the Cabinet at an early date he will establish his fame as one of the greatest premiers this country has had. Both of his immediate predecessors—Mr. Root and Mr. Hay, set a standard of statesmanship that could not be attained by any successor of mediocre ability, but Secretary Knox gives promise of fully measuring up to their standard.

MEYER AND WILSON.

Perhaps the best known of the other members are Mr. Meyer, the Secretary of the Navy, who was Postmaster-General under the Roosevelt administration and before that time Ambassador to Italy, and Secretary Wilson, who has just completed his twelfth year as head of the Agricultural Department. The Navy Department is one of the most important subdivisions of the Government, and it is unfortunate that during the last eight years its chief officials have been changed no less than seven times. The country needs a Secretary of the Navy who will stay on the job long enough to bring about some badly needed reforms, and Mr. Meyer's vigorous administration of the Postoffice Department may be taken as an indication that he will prove to be the man for the place.

Secretary Wilson occupies a unique position, with one exception he has been in the Cabinet longer than any other man in the history of the country, and it is doubtful if President Taft could have found anybody to preside over this important department more worthily than he.

Frank H. Hitchcock, who has been made Postmaster General, rose to prominence last year as manager of the Taft campaign, but he has had previous experience in the Agriculture, Commerce and Labor and Postoffice departments. The other appointees are not so well known to the country, but all of them are men of ability and experience from whom much may be expected.

THE WORLD'S GOLD PRODUCTION.

GOLD has been mined since the beginning of history but apparently the supply is inexhaustible. At least this would seem to be the conclusion to be drawn from figures showing the productions, so far as they have been authenticated, for every year shows a gain. Last year the world's output reached the unprecedented total of $434,972,657, a striking contrast to the production for 1882, which was only $99,757,800.

INCREASE OF WORLD'S PRODUCTION.

A astonishing increase in the world's gold production during the last twenty-seven years is shown by a simple comparison. During the four centuries from the discovery of America until 1882 the total output, according to the best estimates, was $7,200,000,000 but in the twenty-seven years since then it has been $5,300,000,000. The monetary stock of the entire world was estimated in 1894 at $4,125,000,000, and since that date the production has been $4,113,000,000. However, this last comparison is a little misleading, for not all of this sum has gone into coin or monetary reserves, but it is estimated that the monetary total has been increased by at least fifty per cent. in the last sixteen years.

The year 1852 marked the low water stage of gold production throughout the world, and during the next six years the gain was very slow, the production in 1858 being only $107,000,000. But the opening of the South African mines produced a considerable increase of output, and this was soon followed by a stream of wealth from Cripple Creek and other American mining camps, and later by the discoveries in Alaska and the Klondike region. In 1905 the total exceeded $400,000,000, or more than four times what it had been less than a quarter-century before. The next year it was swelled to $412,000,000, while 1908 added still another twenty-five millions.

It is interesting to note that while the United States is producing more gold today than ever before, its proportionate share is steadily diminishing. In 1882 this country produced about one-third of the world's total, while Australia contributed another third. But in 1908 our share was less than one-fourth and Australia's was only a little more than one-sixth, though in the intervening period the production of both countries was multiplied. South Africa now produces more than 40 per cent. of the world's output in gold, though in 1882 it did [illegible]

GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT.

What becomes of all the gold? It is one of the least destructible of metals, for it does not rust as iron does, and its value is so great that it is carefully protected from loss by theft or carelessness. But nevertheless it is constantly disappearing, and in much greater quantities than most people suppose. An immense amount of gold is lost every year by abrasion, the ordinary wear and tear to which every gold coin or ornament is subjected. In the aggregate the loss from this cause probably reaches into the millions annually. Most of the gold mined is used for coinage, but a constantly increasing amount is employed in the arts. Few people are so poor nowadays as to be without at least one piece of gold jewelry, but it was not so a century ago when the production was only a small fraction of its present volume.

Among mining men there is a saying, which has been proved true by long experience, that "gold is where you find it," meaning that the precious metal is likely to be found in the most unexpected places, in geological formations which according to precedent are not likely to carry gold values. Perhaps this explains why the gold seeker is a thorough cosmopolitan, following his fortunes in every land under the sun. Within the last half-century extensive gold deposits have been found in places where its existence was previously undreamt of, and who knows where it will be discovered next?

Twenty-five years ago, if any citizen of Colorado Springs had predicted that in less than two decades more than $250,000,000 of the precious metal would be dug out of the ground within a few miles of this city he would have been regarded as a lunatic, but that is what has actually happened. The same thing may occur again, and some other cow pasture as unpromising as Cripple Creek was in 1891, is sure to yield its plentiful store of wealth. What has happened can and will happen again, and the history of gold mining shows that it is always the unexpected that happens.

GOOD TIMES COMING.

From the Birmingham Age-Herald.

With big crops this summer and the tariff question disposed of a new era of prosperity will set in, and it will be a record breaker.

TWO BIG BATTLESHIPS.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Apparently we are to have two big battleships added to the fleet by the present Congress. Admiral Evans expresses disappointment that the argument of the navy department for four ships has not been indorsed, but he must remember that many of our members of Congress come from districts where the corn and wheat fields are in no particular danger from invasion and that they are not all of them as yet able to grasp the idea that an efficient navy is the best safeguard for the peace of the nation and is but an insurance policy, after all.

England is to lay the keels of six new Dreadnoughts. As long as other nations insist upon steady progress in naval maters, it would be the height of foolishness for the United States to drag behind. We fully agree with Admiral Evans that four new battleships should be ordered, of the new type that is proposed, but we are glad that the Senate committee on naval affairs has at least agreed to the two voted by the House. It is something. These vessels will be greater and more powerful in every way than the Dreadnought type, and that means a material advancement.

A NOISELESS GUN.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Hiram Maxim's latest invention seems to be of more importance than would appear at first sight. A noiseless, kickless gun with efficiency unimpaired is a desideratum in war. The new contrivance is attachable to any rifle and it reduces the noise of explosion to the minimum, almost to that of the click of the hammer.

Like many other important inventions the principle on which it works is simple and has been used in other directions. Noise is produced by the action of suddenly expanding gases (or any other action) creating a vacuum or tending to do so. This disturbance of the air causes waves to start which, reaching the ear, give rise to the sensation which we call sound. There is no sound without an ear. The new invention is simply a reversed turbine at the end of the barrel which takes up the explosive force of the gases so that they do not "split the air" and at the same time they overcome the recoil. In the meantime the bullet speeds on without being affected.

In hunting this device will be of value. In war it seems to be important in that it will very largely change infantry tactics, just as the smokeless powder and long-distance rifles have changed formations from closed ranks to the open order and have made the skirmish line a most important feature of attack instead of a mere developing force. The noiseless gun will make harder discovery by an enemy, will give an advantage to the side which is best in strategy, and will make war more deadly when one side "gets the drop," and by the same token will make it more difficult for armies to meet each other face to face.

Anything that adds to the deadliness and to the difficulties of war is to be welcomed, because in the last analysis it will restrict nations from indulging in the last argument of kings.

HOMES FOR THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

According to a table published in 1907 by Louise Ballard Moore, a computation of the income and expenditures of 200 workingmen's families in New York city, is made for the purpose of showing how much of said income goes for rent.

In this table we find that rent absorbs a little over 19 per cent of the gross income and also that the poorer the family the larger is the share going for this purpose, in some cases itching 30 per cent. We also find that the total average incomes were $851.28, nineteen per cent of this is about $161.74.

It might be interesting to anyone of the inquiring turn of mind to find out why the American workingman has to pay this large share of his income and who receives it and what does the receiver give in return.

When the builder employes the architect, the mason, bricklayer, carpenter and the host of others who help build houses, it is right and just that they should be compensated for their time and labor. The owner of the houses is entitled to enough income to cover the current expenses and a reasonable interest on his investment. So far nothing seems to stand in the way of justice and equity.

Now let us suppose a builder from the town of Green Valley reads the above statement and he figures it out this way: "Each of these families will give $150 a year rent, that is 10 per cent on $1,500 invested. I can build a six or seven-room house of good quality for $1,500, for which these people will pay $160 and will gladly leave the evil smelling crowded tenements in which they are now compelled to live."

The proposition looks good to him, so he boards a train for New York. Upon his arrival he hunts up a friend and states his proposition to him. He is surprised at the pitying look on his friend's face and asks him to explain wherein his proposition is faulty. "Where is the land on which to build the 200 houses?" The builder said he didn't know, but judged that a matter of small consequence, because on his way up from the ferry he saw enough vacant lots on which he could build many times 200 houses. "Yes," said his friend, "although that land is vacant, yet it is very valuable." "How can that be?" said the builder. "No labor has ever been expended on it; there are no crops growing on it." "I understand. You're from Green Valley. Well, it's this way: Land, owing to the present and prospective population of New York city, would yield an enormous crop of dollars, and as the population increased it would soon make the $160 rent now paid by the workingmen look very small." In proof of this assertion he showed him a statement in which the land value of New York city is far in excess of the value of the improvements on the land.

"If you say the present and prospective population of New York city makes the land so valuable, then, why don't the people who make that value appropriate it to the needs of the community and no one would suffer, because it would come back to them in added communal benefits; besides, such a course would help the builders and mechanics, as well as allow every one to purchase or rent a home at a reasonable cost."

His friend didn't attempt to answer this last statement, except by telling him that he was one of those Henry George cranks, and that his scheme was impracticable.

JOSEPH SINTON.

509 South El Paso St., Colorado Springs, March 8.

When the last of the spavined walkers has toiled through the six-day race, and the last of the tireless talkers shoves words through his mobile face; when the last of the garment makers has ruined the last new gown, and the last of the foot-race fakirs has buncoed a country town; when the last of the oil kings shovels his money into the street, and the last of the Hall Caine novels has given the world cold feet, then it may be that men elected to serve in the people's cause, will do as they are expected—work rather with brains than jaws.

GANO-DOWNS

HIS HARD EXPERIENCE.

They had for truth a high regard
Who told me skating wasn't hard.

I'm quite sure that I got it straight,
It really isn't hard to skate.

It's not the skating that is nice
And easy. It is just the ice.

That's hard, I hope that you will grant.
I think it's worse than adamant.

In it I tried to make a dent
And now my spinal column's bent.

Perhaps I should have used a pick
Or crowbar, though, to do the trick.

An ax, if I had worked with one,
Or else a chisel, might have done.

But with that lovely duck of mine
I tried to do it with my spine.

I wore a nifty costume that
I thought the thing—until I sat.

I should, if I had been acute,
Have dressed in a pneumatic suit.

I'm through with that, at any rate
No more on ice I'll try to skate.

I'll skate upon a new-plowed field
Or anything it will yield.

THE SAVIOR OF RADIUM.

Millions of Pounds' worth of Valuable Element Thrown Away as Refuse.

From Tid Bits.

There are fortunes waiting for people who can provide the newly founded Royal British Radium Institute with supplies of the famous new element, which is worth something like 3,000 times its weight in gold. And the most amazing feature of radium is that it can be produced from material which, up to now, has been valueless.

Radium, as is now generally known, is extracted from pitchblende, a mineral from which uranium a rare metal, of color like that of nickel—is also extracted. Hitherto, however, after the uranium had been extracted from the pitchblende, the residue was thrown away as valueless, although it is from this residue that radium can be extracted. Certainly many tons of pitchblende have to be handled before a few grains of radium can be found. As the thousandth part of a grain, however, is worth about £18, the labor is not without its compensation.

Until lately one never dreamed that the residues of pitchblende, after the chemical treatment extracting uranium, were valuable, the source of radium, and some years ago the company which owns the mine in Cornwall from which a very large part of the world's supply of pitchblende comes, actually paid 8s 6d a ton to have more than 100 tons of residue carted away and tipped on waste heaps on Stepney building land. "I would gladly, says the Secretary of the company, "give £5,000 today to recover that waste pitchblende. I do not know where it is now, but some workmen are living over radium beds and do not know it."

As a matter of fact, there are many other people in London living over hidden mines of this priceless element besides the workmen of Stepney. A well-known city firm of analytical chemists and metallurgists threw away, for 25 years, the by-products obtained from pitchblende in the process of extracting uranium. Hundreds of tons of this discarded "refuse" were carted away and used for leveling and laying out roads and for filling in the foundations of houses.

And this 25 years' accumulation of radium must still be in existence, for the element is indestructible. At the dining tables of many old families in England, too, there are used wine glasses and ornaments in the manufacture of which radium, to a certain extent, entered. Always a rather gently king of wares, it will now be appreciated more than ever. The use of uranium for this purpose has long been discontinued in favor of cheaper methods.

Although pitchblende exists in large quantities in Cornwall, where efforts will now be concentrated with a view to increasing the supply of and cheapening radium, it is in Bohemia, where the largest supplies are to be found, and the earliest specimens of radium used in this country were obtained from Austria. But the Austrian government, recognizing the scarcity of the new element, prohibited its exportation.

Last year three grammes of radium were produced in the laboratory of the University of Vienna—the greatest quantity yet produced—and this necessitated the treatment of 10 tons of pitchblende, and they generously lent Sir William Ramsey half a gramme to experiment with in recognition of the valuable work carried out by the English scientist in connection with radium.

Some wonderful cures have been brought about by the use of radium, although the experiments have naturally been somewhat limited on account of its scarcity. For external growth, radium is wonderfully efficacious. Not only can port wine stains and moles be cleared away by the use of radium but also tumors and ulcers. Sir Frederick Treves mentions the case of a girl who had a tumor on her eyelid in size equal to a plum, which was removed by radium.

GRAND CANON'S DEATH ROLL.

That Part of the Colorado River Never Gives Up Its Dead.

From the New York Press.

Every year the river and the Grand Canon of the Colorado take their toll in human life," recently said Frederick S. Dellenbaugh, the artist-author, who has painted pictures and written books about that wonderful river that rushes for hundreds of miles through scores hundreds of feet deep.

"When I was with Major Powell on his exploring expedition through the Grand Canon, 40 years ago, we lost several men, and the few other expeditions that have followed ours since then all have had to pay its price in the same way," he continued. "Powell's party was the first journey white men ever made down through that perilous portion of the Colorado river, and almost every day of the many months it took was full of danger. Every year some lives are lost there. There would be more, only so few people venture into that dangerous part of the Grand Canon. No one knows what the total toll is each year, for in those vast desert spaces through which the river runs a man may disappear in many ways and his body or bones may not be found for years, if ever. Two years ago a skeleton of a man was discovered in Marble canon, lying on a rocky shelf a little above the whirling waters of the river. A newspaper dated in 1890 was in the pocket of his coat, so that it is likely the man perished eight years ago at least. Whether he was killed while trying to scale the insurmountable walls, or whether he died of starvation, no one knows.

"That part of the Colorado river never gives up its dead. Those who fall into the water's clutches literally are dashed to pieces and no trace of them ever is found. The stream runs with such exceeding swiftness and turbulence in so many places that nothing less fragile than a giant bowlder can long exist.

"There are four so-called 'fords' of the Colorado in the Grand Canon: 'El Vado de los Padres' which is known as the Fathers' Crossing, Dandy Crossing, Lee Ferry and Stone's Ferry. The last two are about 200 miles apart, and there is no way of crossing in between except by boat—in some stretch of comparatively smooth water—or by flying. The walls of the canon rise vertically for many hundreds of feet, and the places where it is possible to reach the river are far between. Even these fords of the Colorado are dangerous, the water runs so fast and the footing is so insecure.

"The Whirlpool Rapids of the Niagara river below the falls are terrible to contemplate, but it can be said without exaggeration that the Niagara rapids are peaceful waters compared to some of the long stretches of foam on the Colorado. The whirlpools on the Colorado are of the true type—the water swirls round and round and there is a broad, hollow, funnel-shaped hole in the center of them through which one might peer down a good many feet if he could hover over it. After the river emerges from the Grand canon it flows through a flat country into the Gulf of California. Even there it is a treacherous stream, full of sandbars and quicksands, and almost as dangerous to cross as in the rapids above.

"Not all the canon's toll, however, is collected by the river. No one knows what immeasurable mineral wealth is hidden in the canon walls, and every year venturesome prospectors go into those gloomy depths seeking the treasures that they guard. These men, through some sudden rise of water, or for some other reason, frequently lose their lives in trying to escape from the canon. Most of them, I fancy, go mad with hunger and die in trying to scale the precipices. It's the most awesome place in the world—down in a place where the river flows, where it never is fully daylight except for a few brief minutes at midday, with the roaring water on one hand and the giant cliffs towering thousands of feet above."

38-INCH GIRTH SO EXAGGERATION

White Plains Dispatch to the New York Press.

Arguing that because he weighs 250 pounds and measures 58 inches at the waist he could not possibly have dragged a man through an alley only 38-4 inches wide to rob him, as he is accused of having done, William Green, convicted of robbery, and in jail awaiting sentence, says this is a cruel world. Green will be sentenced by County Judge Platt Monday. He has been fighting for weeks through Benjamin Fagan, lawyer, of Ossining, where Green's home is, for a new trial, contending that his great weight and size proved him innocent of the alley robbery. Despite his lawyer's plea and exhibits he brought to court, including a diagram showing the alley and a wooden frame to show the exact distance between its walls, and the fact that an exhibition was given in court of a man as fat as Green trying to go through the frame, Judge Platt decided to let the conviction stand.

HIGH PRICE FOR HORSESHOES.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Gen. Sir Clear Mulholland, veteran and historian of the Civil War, tells an incident showing the interest with lessness of Confederate paper money at the close of the war.

"Shortly after Lee's surrender," says the general, "I was a short distance from Richmond. The Confederate soldiers were going home to become men of peace again, and were thinking about their farms.

"One had a large, broken down horse which he viewed with pride. 'Wish I had him, Jim,' said the other. 'What'll you take for him? I'll give you $20,000 for him.'

"'No,' said Jim.

"'Give you $50,000.'

"'No,' said Jim.

"'Give you $100,000,' his friend said.

"'Not much,' replied Jim, 'I just gave $120,000 to have him shod.'"

WHEN GRANDPA WAS A BOY.

No auto carr went whizzing by
When grandpa was a boy;
No aeroplanes sailed to the sky
When grandpa was a boy.
The people did not live in flats,
There were no merry widow hats
And babies were not joining trusts
When grandpa was a boy.

They had no leg shows on the stage
When grandpa was a boy;
Bridge whist had not become the rage
When grandpa was a boy;
They flashed no messages through space
The lady was not in disgrace
Who had a child around her place
When grandpa was a boy.

Waists were not buttoned down behind
When grandpa was a boy;
No meat trust sorked it to mankind
When grandpa was a boy.
The country had no "Uncle Joe"
To say things should be thus or so,
No Aldrich to say yes or no,
When grandpa was a boy.

There were no shrieking suffragettes
When grandpa was a boy;
The ladies puffed no cigarettes
When grandpa was a boy;
When married women ran away
With gleeful men they did not claim
To be affinities nor pray
Therefore, to be absolved from blame,
When grandpa was a boy.

A REMARKABLE RUSSIAN SECT.

From the Dundee Advertiser.

Among the numerous religious sects in Russia, the most remarkable and influential are the Subbotniki or Sabbatarians. They first appeared in the reign of Catherine II, toward the end of the eighteenth century. The members of this sect practice the rite of circumcision, do not believe in Christ, accept only the Old Testament, and observe the Sabbath on Saturday. They also slaughter cattle and fowls according to the Jewish law, use praying shawls and wear zizit (fringes), praying with covered heads from Hebrew prayer books with a Russian translation. They are industrious, hospitable, and can read and write. Up to 1820 they lived, for the most part, in [illegible] In the reign of Alexander I they enjoyed freedom. Nevertheless, the Russian clergy of Mohilev killed about 150 Subbotniki and their leaders. The man who one of the leaders was tortured with hot irons, and then burned at the stake. In the reign of Nicholas I many wished to embrace Judaism, and settled in the Pale of Settlement (the Ghetto) but the government banished them to Siberia and the Caucasus. The Subbotniki number about 2,000,000 and dress like the orthodox Russians.

MANY TOURIST PARTIES

Railroads Have Booked Several Special Trains for Stops Here This Spring.

Results of the extensive advertising given Colorado Springs by the railroads are apparent in bookings for many special parties to visit this city en route to and from the coast.

A party of 35 tourists on their way from Mankato, Kans., to Oregon, will arrive in the city this morning at 7:50 o'clock over the Rock Island and leave over the Denver and Rio Grande after a visit here. A Raymond-Whitcomb excursion of 100 persons will arrive next Friday morning over the Denver and Rio Grande. The special train will be side tracked at Manitou, while the tourists will stay at the Cliffhouse. After sightseeing here they will visit Cripple Creek over the Short Line and leave next Tuesday for Denver. F. S. Witherbee, a prominent New Yorker, and a party of his friends who have been spending the winter in California, are coming to Colorado Springs in a private Pullman observation car over the Denver and Rio Grande on April 1, and will remain for an indefinite period. G. D. Sherman and party, also of New York, and traveling in like style, will be here on March 13.

CHANGE IN LAW OPPOSED

Chamber of Commerce Wants Civil Service Continued in State Institutions.

Resolutions urging members of the Seventeenth general assembly to defeat official bills calling for the repeal or harmful amendment of a law enacted by the last legislature providing for civil service in state institutions and municipalities, were adopted yesterday by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce. The resolutions follow:

Whereas, The Sixteenth general assembly of the state of Colorado enacted a law entitled "An Act in Relation to Civil Service in State Institutions and Municipalities" to secure the appointment of public employes of ascertained fitness and thus introduce business principles in the administration of the civil service commission and various state institutions; and

Whereas, There are now pending before the Seventeenth general assembly several bills calling for the repeal of said law, to wit: Senate bill No. 211, by Adams and Ehrhart; house bill No. 309, by McCoy, and house bill No. 399, by Garman and 24 others; and

Whereas, It would be ill-advised for the state of Colorado to recede from the position it has taken in adopting the principle of civil service, which bases appointment upon the merit system and removes it from political control thereby increasing the stability and effectiveness of the working forces in the various institutions affected; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Colorado Springs, Colo., for and on behalf of the members thereof, That they urge upon the members of the senate and house of representatives of the Seventeenth general assembly the defeat of all measures calling for the repeal or harmful amendment of said act; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the governor of the state and to members from this county and district in both the senate and the house of representatives.

By order of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Colorado Springs, Colo.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE ON GREEK ARCHITECTURE

That the modern architect who reproduces the type of architecture used in the Grecian temples in building railroad stations, carnegie libraries and other public buildings is guilty of plagiarism in the opinion of N. Van den Arend, a well-known architect of this city, who gave an interesting lecture at Perkins hall last night. Mr. Van den Arend's subject was "Greek Architecture." His lecture was one of the regular course being given by the college.

Mr. Van den Arend discussed in detail the great Grecian temples. These temples are built in perfect style, he said. It is interesting to note the harmony between the material used and the object for which the temples were erected. The Greeks built their temples to glorify their gods. By these structures they expressed strength, beauty and immortality. To use the temples as models for public buildings as is the custom of modern architects is nothing short of sacrilegious.

The artist, whether he be painter, architect, or sculptor, must take his motive from nature. The Greeks discovered that color changes proportions and built their temples accordingly.

FREIGHT RATES REDUCED

Railroads Grant Concessions to Leadville on Certain Classes of Goods.

A reduction in freight rates to Leadville from Colorado common points, Colorado Springs, Denver and points west will be effective April 20 on the Colorado & Southern, Denver & Rio Grande and Colorado Midland railroads. A similar reduction will be made on the Burlington.

The arrangement was effected at a meeting of the representatives of the three roads held in Denver a few days ago, but official notice of it was withheld until yesterday when tariff sheets were issued. The reduction was made voluntarily by the railroad officials although Leadville for some time been asking lower rates from the Colorado common points.

The greatest reductions have been made on fourth and fifth class goods, under which are listed hardware, groceries, some articles of furniture and the common household necessities. The new fourth class rate is 47 cents as against the old rate of 62 cents, on fifth class goods, 50 cents was had heretofore the common rate, while the new classification calls for but 42 cents. These rates are for 100 pounds.

The second-class rate has been cut from 94 to 87 cents. This includes eggs and some kinds of perishable goods. The third-class rate has been reduced from 80 to 77 cents.

A slight reduction has also made in classes A, B, C and D, which include stone, coal, building material and other heavy goods.

Mr. Nichols is optimistic regarding the coming tourist season. "Our bookings are larger now than at this time in any previous year," he said last night. "Without exception, the railroads are preparing for the biggest tourist travel in years and I believe that our percentage will be a record-breaker. The Cliff house has been renovated and numerous interior improvements have been made."

SALARIES OF MAYOR AND COUNCILMEN FIXED

based on the amount of bonds to be issued for the acquisition of water, light or other public utilities from which the city can derive a revenue. All questions concerning bond issues must be submitted to a vote of the taxpayers of the city.

The section as adopted is as follows:

Limitation of Bonded Indebtedness.

No loan shall be made and no bonds shall be issued for any purpose except in pursuance of an ordinance authorizing the same which ordinance shall be irrepealable until the indebtedness thereunder provided for and the bonds issued in pursuance thereof shall have been fully paid. No loan shall be made and no bonds issued unless the question of incurring the same and issuing the bonds therefor shall be submitted to the vote of the qualified electors of the city as specified in the next preceding section and a majority of those voting upon the question by ballot shall vote in favor of creating such debt and issuing such bonds. The city shall not become indebted for any purpose or in any manner to an amount which, including existing indebtedness, shall exceed 4 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property within the city, as shown by the last preceding assessment for city purposes, provided, however, that in determining the limitation of the city's power to incur indebtedness there shall not be included bonds issued for the purchase of water, light or other public utilities works or wave from which the city will derive a revenue.

The convention also adopted a section from the report of the finance committee, as follows:

Public Moneys

The commissioner of finance and revenue shall have direct control of the receipts of the city, except as otherwise provided by this charter or by ordinance. The council shall by ordinance provide a system for the collection, custody and disbursement of all public moneys.

[illegible] is reports on the proposed charter, except governing the department of water and water works, the committee has submitted a general report to the convention which contains much [illegible] information regarding the city's water [illegible] and suggestions concerning its management. It considers the [illegible] with special reason to the following features: Adequacy of the present system for present needs, supply and demand; its protection from impairment and pollution; augmentation and provision for future needs; expert management; development of irrigation system and finances.

The Report in Full

The report follows in full:

To the Honorable Convention of the City of Colorado Springs:

Your committee on water and water works respectfully submits the following report:

It is obvious that the prosperity of this city is dependent in large measure upon the growth and prosperity of the city, and is absolutely limited by the adequacy of its insured water supply.

Your committee have carefully considered various plans looking to the most efficient administration of this chief asset of the city, and have united in recommending that adopted by the convention in sections I and III of article IX (Report No. 1 as amended). These sections distributing the executive and administrative powers and duties among five departments, creating the department of water and water works as one of them, and designating the Mayor as its commissioner, taken together with the vesting of the powers of the city in the elective officers, subject to such distribution by sections 3 and 4 of article I (report No. 1 as amended), and the specific vesting of the legislative powers of the city in the council by the first section of article III same report, provide adequate instrumentalities for exercise of the city's powers within or without its territorial limits in respect of its water works acquired or to be acquired, including those powers expressly declared by article XX of the constitution. A check on the abuse of those powers is found in the initiative and referendum.

The convention has also adopted in section 10 of article IX (report No. 1) a reservation of control over all franchises affecting the water works, and such provisions as the constitution may require the charter to contain as to bonds will doubtless be incorporated in the provisions as to the department of finance.

It remains therefore for your committee to recommend such mandatory or restrictive provisions as shall [illegible] of the organic law of the city to be established by ordinance.

The vital importance to the city of its waterworks system adds difficulty to the task of determining what should be left out of the charter. By a process of elimination the accompanying sections have been selected for submission to the section of the convention.

In bringing them your committee deem it appropriate to invite your attention to certain features which will be [illegible] under the following heads:

1. Adequacy of the present system for present needs, supply and demand.
2. Its protection from impairment and pollution.
3. Augmentation and provision for future needs.
4. Expert management.

[illegible] unless some method of avoiding it can be devised.

[illegible] to refunding indebtedness [illegible] submitted herewith [illegible] of the [illegible]

All our outstanding water and sewer refunding funds [illegible] bonds, which become redeemable in 10 years at the option of the city. The refunding bonds [illegible] the funds [illegible] bonds redeemable in 15. The refunding bonds issued under the act of [illegible] bonds redeemable in 10 [illegible]

[illegible] from the levy [illegible] and on these bonds are [illegible] but no additional [illegible] would be [illegible] annual expenditures varying from $10,000 to $30,000 and [illegible] 1917 exceeding that [illegible] in other words, by [illegible] the net cash earnings of the system as reported for 1908, after allowing the system [illegible]

It is proposed therefore to provide for [illegible] of long term low rate bonds with sinking fund payments [illegible] years after issuance, and to issue [illegible] bonds from time to time as existing bonds become payable, unless they can be purchased and so retired.

The interest and sinking fund payments on the proposed bond issue could be [illegible] primarily on the revenue of the system, although resting on the faith and credit of the city. [illegible] would enable the system will be able to pay its own way [illegible] bonded indebtedness for many years to come even at the present revenue, and prospective of the natural growth in revenue with the growth of the city and be made what it should be, self sustaining and self financing—without resort to tax levy except for temporary deficiencies if need be.

Future bond issues for any augmentation of the system should in like manner be of long-term, low-rate bonds, charged primarily on revenue.

Water and Water Works

Following is the proposed section of the charter governing the water and water works department as briefly outlined in The Gazette yesterday morning:

ARTICLE [illegible]

Section IV. Department of Water and Water Works.

The department of water and water works shall embrace all property, rights and obligations of the city in respect of water and water works, and [illegible] is practicable be administered as an entity. To this end all contracts, records and muniments of title pertaining thereto shall be assembled and carefully preserved, and accounts shall be kept of its business in books separate and distinct from [illegible] and shall be compiled [illegible] the department [illegible]

The commissioner of water and water works is charged with the [illegible] of said department. He shall appoint all such officials, assistants and skilled employes as may be necessary, and may secure the services of [illegible] engineers, specialists and experts for such compensation as may be approved by the Council. He may delegate to any subordinate the power to employ and discharge day laborers and unskilled employes. He shall take care that the water supply of the city is preserved from impairment or pollution and seasonably augmented so as to be sure at all times a supply of potable water adequate for the growing needs of the city. To that end he shall cause comparative investigation to be made of all available reservoir sites and sources of such water supply and report thereon to the council with his recommendations. He shall also prepare and submit to the Council measures for the storage and augmenting of the city's supply of water for domestic and irrigation purposes. He shall cause adequate water measurements and tests to be made and record thereof preserved.

3. He shall with the approval of the Council expressed by resolution fix rates and establish regulations for the use of water by consumers and regulations for the orderly administration of the department.

4. I demand that the chairman of the committee explain how this report signed in here.

That was his beginning and kept it up with variations, even though the speaker tried to get him to cease until the proper time should be reached. The chairman of the committee attempted no answer so Mr. Greenman had his questioning for his pains, and gained no information at all.

The Lubers Bill

The committee on state affairs and reapportionment has had the Lubers bill in its care for about six weeks receiving suggestions from the Denver leaders as well as from those outside the city. As drawn by Mr. Lubers the bill gave Denver only 10 members of the house, which raised so much objection from Denver that changes were made. Now it gives Denver 11 members, a provision entirely satisfactory to the leaders of the Democratic party in Denver and not objectionable to those outside.

[illegible] bill went through on third reading being the one piece of business of the morning session. Mr. Stephens of Lincoln tried to insert a provision that banks should not receive deposits exceeding to any 10 times the capital stock and surplus. While the Republican majority were discussing whether to object or not Mr. Wagler secured all possible of amendment by making his objection. As unanimous consent is required for amendments to be made on third reading, the bill will go to the senate to have any amendment inserted there. The vote on the third reading was:

SHOOTS WIFE'S AFFINITY

GILLETTE, Wyo., March 9.—Edward Smith, city marshal of Moorcroft, Wyo., last night shot and instantly killed Herman Holcomb, a bartender, who was found in company with Mrs. Smith at the postoffice. Smith, it is said, had suspected improper relations between his wife and Holcomb, and came to Gillette to investigate. The shooting has created much excitement and Smith, after being arrested, was hurried to Sundance for fear of violence.

GIRL SUICIDE BURIED IN CATHOLIC CEMETERY

EL PASO, Tex., March 9.—Through the aid of the law, Faustino Armendariz today succeeded in having his daughter, who committed suicide, buried in the family plot in a Catholic cemetery. Because the girl had taken her own life the church authorities refused permission to inter her body within the sacred ground of the church. Armendariz appealed to the courts and Judge James Harper granted an order restraining the priests of the church from interfering with the burial.

HARRIMAN'S BEGGAR PROVES TO BE FAKER

EL PASO, Tex., March 9.—The unarmed beggar who excited E. H. Harriman's sympathy with a story of being injured while in the employ of the Southern Pacific, has been located by the El Paso rockpile by railroad detectives who have been searching for the man under instructions from their chief.

The beggar admits that his story of having been employed by the Southern Pacific was false. Harriman gave him a dime in Tucson and sent orders from Mexico to have him located.

What Press Agents Say

MARGARET FEALY COMING

Margaret Fealy appears at the Opera House next week for six performances, commencing Wednesday matinee, and continuing through Saturday giving a special Saturday matinee. They plays to be presented include "The Charity Ball," "Jane," Witches Night and Candle Light and "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

When Margaret Fealy is not touring, she conducts one of the best dramatic schools in the world. Few instructors are so well qualified to teach their art as Mrs Fealy. She adopted the stage as her profession when quite a young girl and has had much experience both as a leading woman with stock companies, and with the most noted stars, besides starring in prominent plays herself.

There are many well known actors in the profession who were Mrs Fealy's pupils and whom she started on their theatrical career. Among them is young Douglas Fairbanks, who married the cotton king, Sully's daughter, and who is now a prominent Broadway star in "A Gentleman From Mississippi." Arthur Young the talented leading man with Louis James Franklyn Underwood and Ernest Truex now making a great success with Lillian Russell were among Mrs Fealy's pupils, whose list is too lengthy to mention. She has had no failures.

"THE COUNTRY BOY," - TODAY

The only original "Zeke," the Country Boy" company on the road comes to the Opera House today for two performances. There will be a big street parade at noon, and a band concert before each performance in front of the Opera House by the celebrated Sells Floto circus band. No one can afford to miss this "show" for it is the only one of its kind to be seen here this season. The band excels all others and its performance contain only the latest and best popular "hits."

The story of "Zeke" will appeal to everyone who likes a good, clean play with plenty of humor and fun. Zeke is a country boy who starts out into the world to make a fortune and finds out other things as well. He serves as detective and saves a girl her property.

The matinee commences at 3 o'clock. Prices 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults. Evening seats which are reserved, sell for 25c, 50c, 75c, and $1.00.

AT THE MAJESTIC

Each succeeding performance at the pretty and comfortable home of refined vaudeville demonstrates the appreciative qualities of the people of Colorado Springs. The endeavors of Mr. A. Webber and Tamnen to make the local vaudeville theater the pattern for all western playhouses appealing to the public for patronage on the grounds of music, novelty, refined humor and high standard, is bearing fruit to which the big houses testify.

The bill this week is an specially attractive one. Not an act that is dull or tame, and all are brimful of mirth and melody. The La Zar company is, of course the big feature, but it is very closely approached by every other number on the bill. There are no soft spots in the program. There is a chance to laugh to the limit, a bit of the pathetic and always a chance to hold one's breath and wonder at the adeptness of the performers. Grace Darnley is a wonderful manipulator of her little physical self, and the great Barnum never discovered a more remarkable feature for his world-famous show. The sketch of Parke and Lee is far ahead of acts of this kind. It is especially refreshing and novel, and in itself is a big number of the bill. The musical act of Hesson and Riordon is another that one cannot afford to miss. Joe J. and Myra Dowling are always popular. They deserve to be, for they are both performers of the first rank. Carrie McManus sings several songs this week it proves the rare quality of her soprano voice. Her appearance is always the signal for appreciative applause. The Majeristiscope pictures this week are of brand new subjects, and are the clearest that have ever been shown in the Springs. By special arrangement the management of the Majestic is able to procure the brightest and best films direct from the developing studio. Those shown this week are gems.

If you want to laugh or be entertained in such a way that when you go home you will have "a good taste in your mouth" attend one of this week's performances at this well ventilated, well lighted and comfortable playhouse.

FAIRYLAND THEATER

The patrons of the Fairyland theater surely received their full value for their money last night and no wonder when the high class acts and motion pictures which Manager Lubelski is offering is taken into consideration.

The features of the bill this week are Broth & Mason, who appear in an original comedy entitled "The Actress and the Hellboy," who found favor with the audience from the start and when Mr Broth sang his original song "Colorado Springs You're Hot Old Town" he was compelled to respond to several encores.

Brandon & Wilson, who introduced several good song numbers also made a hit.

Another beautiful number on the program is the pictured melody "When It's Moonlight Mary Darling" which is rendered by Miss Dora May. The motion pictures "The Brahma Diamond" is one of the best subjects yet presented at this popular little playhouse.

Tonight is amateur night and we have seven amateurs engaged for this occasion. Some of the amateur acts are the "Arkansas Violinist," Elie Cartwright the clever little dancer, who is always a hit, and several others will be there also.

You certainly cannot afford to miss these souvenir days Tuesday and Friday.

Children admitted to all performances for 5 cents. General admission 10 cents.

MISS BETH PETERS AT THE CRYSTAL

Mr Wilson and Keyes so long with the Crystal have decided to take an engagement with partner in Seattle as General Manager Greaves in looking for the best talent available decided to send Miss Peters. This young lady comes to our city with the highest recommendation in every way. Her appearance before large gatherings in Cheyenne frontier day created a decided sensation and since then she has proved herself to be a star in her line and will meet with the approval of her audiences.

The Crystal offers five of the best stories ever pictured on a curtain. "The Laplanders" is a most interesting picture of its people and customs. It also shows their chief industry (hunting and fishing, also their herds of reindeer which are of the greatest value to them. "Bess and Her Goose" is a side splitter. The same may be said of "Little for Lunch." Care to see them? Well, I guess so and won't be sorry either—look up the program in the amusement column.

INACTIVE KIDNEYS

CAUSE RHEUMATISM AND THIS PRESCRIPTION IS FOR IT.

MIX THIS RECIPE AT HOME IF YOU HAVE ANY FORM OF RHEUMATISM

Recent hospital reports show that the death rate from Bright's disease and kidney troubles is steadily increasing throughout the country. All known forms of relief are being suggested for the great amount of suffering, which is especially among those who are not in a position to pack up and visit the noted health resorts to be cured. Recent tests prove rheumatism to be primarily a disease in itself but a severe symptom of kidney trouble and a condition caused by clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues in the kidneys, which fail to filter the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, permitting these substances to remain in the veins and decompose in joints, causing the intense pain, swelling and stiffness of rheumatism.

The following simple home treatment will cure Rheumatism and is harmless and inexpensive, and so simple that anybody can mix it at home.

The ingredients are: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Go to any good prescription pharmacy and get these three harmless ingredients and mix them by shaking in a bottle, taking as a dose a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is nothing better in the world for backache, kidney and bladder trouble too. Such symptoms as frequent and painful urination, soreness, weakness, general and nervous debility are caused by certain acids and poisonous waste matter, decayed tissue, etc., in the blood which the kidneys will clear and purify after a few doses of this prescription.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FOOT

For Six Months his Suffering was Beyond Words—One Mass of Irritation and Itching was Dreadful—Slept Only from Sheer Exhaustion—Almost Out of His Mind—After 24 Hours' Use of Cuticura Slept Like an Infant and Then was

CURED IN ONE MONTH BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am seventy-seven years old and one day, some years ago I fell from a step-ladder, bruising my hip. In a few days I could not walk. I called in a doctor and made of a week's siege. The doctor had not cured me of that when I was taken with eczema from head to foot. I was sick for six months and what I suffered tongue could not tell. I could not sleep day or night because of that dreadful itching when I did sleep it was from sheer exhaustion. I was one mass of irritation, it was even in my scalp. The doctor's medicine almost made me worse and I was almost out of my mind. I read of Cuticura and sent my wife to the drug store, also was a member of my lodge of Odd Fellows, for a set of the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them faithfully for twenty-four hours. That night I slept like an infant the first solid night's sleep I had had for six months. I was not afraid to use plenty of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap with hot water and in a week's time I was able to put on my clothes again. In a month I was cured. From that day to this I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too highly. I may add that I have a very heavy head of hair which I owe to Cuticura." W. Harrison Smith, R.F.D. 2, Mt Risco, N. Y., Feb 5 '08.

A single set of the Cuticura Remedies is often sufficient for the treatment of the most torturing disfiguring itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes and irritations with loss of hair, from infancy to age, when all other remedies fail. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

Cuticura Soap (25c), Ointment (50c), Resolvent (50c) are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

TEMPERANCE FORCES LINING UP FOR WORK

The meetings were held yesterday by the committee for each ward on the platform for the coming city election and arrangements for the campaign. No definite conclusions were arrived at regarding a ticket. It is understood that Senator John B. Unless he will run on an anti-saloon platform, he will probably be opposed by the W. C. T. U. and the temperance forces.

The room under W. C. T. U. hall on Colorado avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets will be opened today by the temperance people for their headquarters.

FOGS AND WIRELESS.

From the Dunder Advertiser.

It is one of the many marvels of wireless telegraphy that the ether waves which carry its messages unlike light waves, suffer no absorption in mist or fog. Quite the opposite, in fact, is the case, for the effect on them of clear sunlight is so marked that they can be sent with equal initial power only less than half the distance by day as by night. For this reason press dispatches and long-distance messages sent by wireless telegraphy are wherever possible committed to the ether waves after sunset.

Franklin Model D

When you want to make time, what is the limiting factor? Is it the horse-power of the motor, or is it the way the automobile rides?

There is only one answer, and it explains why it is that Franklin Model D with only 28 horse-power is able to make such high average speed. No other automobile except the 6-cylinder Franklin equals it on American roads. You may have 60 horse-power and your maximum speed may be seventy miles an hour, but at the end of a day's touring you have not gone as far as your neighbor in his Model D. Your speed is held down to what the passengers can endure and to what you think your automobile will stand.

Speed then is a question of comfort—a question of the way the automobile rides.

Model D is always comfortable and you dare drive it. It will stand for speed when other automobiles will not.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., March 9.—Superintendent W. S. Jackson of the Union Leasing company will shortly let a contract for 500 feet of work in driving the Prince Albert tunnel. With this work completed the tunnel will be at the end line of the estate, and work will then commence on the east lateral to be carried to the side line of the property, under the big "blow out."

Moore and Holman, leasing on the main shaft of the Mountain Beauty mine on Bull hill, have opened up a new ore shoot at the 450-foot level and have commenced shipping from the new find. A car of [illegible] and one of coarse rock was loaded out on Sunday and is estimated at one ounce for the quartz and between $30 and $40 for the "fines." The lease covers the ground down to the 500-foot level. Below that depth the ground is leased to the Findley Consolidated company.

Drastic laws for the regulation of the state egg traffic will be demanded of the Pennsylvania legislature at its coming session. James Foust, state dairy and food commissioner, has prepared a bill demanding a long term of imprisonment, together with a heavy fine, as the penalty for either selling or buying decayed eggs for use as food.

SMALLEST BUSINESS SINCE ELECTION DAY

Financial Interests Are Holding Aloof From Speculation. Slump in Exports for Two Months.

NEW YORK, March 9.—The stock market shows with growing clearness that substantial financial interests are holding aloof. Yesterday's was the smallest day's business since the period preceding the national election, and the character of the market from week end to week end is even more like that of last summer before the national convention had been held than the pre-election period.

Financial authorities consider that the United States district court decision of yesterday against the Missouri, Kansas & Texas law is of far-reaching importance not only to the railroads directly concerned, but in its application of the judicial safeguards against similar legislation elsewhere. The argument holds to extend the moderate effect of this decision which was felt yesterday toward further [illegible].

Vague rumors of a coming bond issue by the Missouri Pacific and the Union Pacific had a moderate strengthening effect for a time but did not last. The beginning of gold exports to London was of as little effect on the money market as has been the course of gold to Argentina, but was interesting as marking the first shipments of the metal direct to London from New York since before the financial panic of 1907.

The fact that two months' merchandise exports from this country have fallen $43,000,000 in value below those for the same period last year, while imports in the same comparison have increased $43,000,000, makes the reason for the movement plain. Continued liquidation of foreign holdings of American securities and some American participation in foreign loan subscriptions make up additional requirements for remittances abroad.

Money rates were quotably lower today, both on call and on time. Last prices of stocks were around the lowest of the day.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $3,250,000. United States bonds, 2s, registered, 3s, registered, and the 4s coupon, advanced ¼ per cent on call today.

SHARP RALLY FOLLOWS AFTER BREAK IN WHEAT

Early Slump Due to Profit Taking Is Turned to Firm Market by Bulls.

CHICAGO, March 9.—Following a break in prices early in the session, the wheat market rallied sharply for all the May delivery, advancing nearly 3 cents above the lowest point of the day. The close was strong, almost at the top, with prices showing net gains of ½ to 1½c. Corn, oats and provisions also closed strong.

The early slump in wheat was due to renewed profit taking by several of the leading bulls and to the disappointing showing of the government report. At the start prices were 1@1½c higher to 1c lower, May being at $1.12@1.12½ to $1.12½ and July at $1.02@1.02½ after the break May dropped to $1.12, while July sold off to $1.01½. Weakness was due in some degree to the heaviness of cash wheat, of all the principal grain centers of this country. Toward the middle of the day the bull leader began to buy freely of both the May and July, and continued a heavy purchaser the remainder of the day, this started active covering by shorts, resulting in a quick advance, May rising to $1.13½ and July to $1.03@1.03½. The market closed excited and strong, with May at $1.12½@¾ and July at [illegible].

Corn for May delivery advanced today to 61½c, a new high record mark for the season. The market was supported all the day by leading bulls, and after a moderate decline early, a decidedly bullish tone prevailed during the remainder of the session. The close was strong, at almost the top, May being at 61½c and July at [illegible].

Oats displayed moderate weakness at the start, but rallied and continued strong the balance of the session. May closed at [illegible] and July at [illegible].

Provisions rallied from slight weakness early in the day, and [illegible] the greater part of the session. At the close prices were [illegible] to 10c higher than yesterday's final quotations.

The A. A. A. M. standard thread for spark plugs is now quite extensively adopted and from appearances it will soon be as if the matter of spark plugs had been reduced to one standard thread for all spark plugs, insofar as American cars are concerned. An autoist should be able to replace a defective spark plug from the stock of any supply house of trade. This facility can only be brought about by a standard thread is adopted.

The life blood

Of your watch is the oil necessary to lubricate its delicate bearings. Half a drop of the best watch oil keeps your watch perfectly lubricated eighteen months. Such oil is obtained from the head of the blackfish, each head yielding a small quantity of oil. After careful refining it must be free from acid and proof against change of climate and must not gum in the bearings. This is the oil used in our repair department. We thoroughly clean every part of your watch and properly oil it at the same price you pay for inferior work elsewhere.
